Cynthia Cooper holds Comets point guard Kim Perrot's jersey after the Comets captured their third straight WNBA title last season. Perrot peacefully passed away Aug. 18, 1999, after a six-month battle with cancer.

After making the Comets as a developmental player for the 1997 WNBA inaugural season, Perrot won the starting point guard position and then took the city by storm with her energy, drive and determination.

She was one of the main components that allowed the Comets to win back-to-back WNBA titles in 1997 and 1998, while her boundless faith supported her every step of the way. Kim Perrot will always be a member of the Houston Comets.

WNBA

HISTORY

On April 24, 1996 women's basketball announced "We Got Next" as the NBA Board of Governors approved the concept of a Women's National Basketball Association (WNBA) to begin play in June 1997.

Since that day in 1996 there have been many firsts for the WNBA — Val Ackerman — the first president of the WNBA, Sheryl Swoopes — the first player signed to the WNBA, Cynthia Cooper — the league's first Most Valuable Player, and the Houston Comets — the first (and only) WNBA champions.

However, the very first for the league was a "to-do list." With less than 15 months to tipoff, a league of its own began to unfold for the WNBA as each task was completed.

The history of the WNBA follows:

ON THE AIR

Before a player was signed or a staff member was in place, the league announced its broadcast partnerships with NBC, ESPN, and Lifetime. It was decided that the WNBA season would be played in the summer when the sports calendar was less crowded and the games could be televised live and in prime time on a consistent basis. During a successful inaugural season, more than 50 million viewers watched WNBA games on the three networks. By 1999, WNBA games were broadcast in over 125 countries with 37 broadcasters in 17 languages.

New countries for the 1999 season included Germany, Ghana, Haiti, Italy, Lithuania, Uruguay, the United Kingdom and Canada. Canada aired a weekly Friday night game on CTV Sportsnet. Nearly one million viewers per week watched the WNBA on national television during the second and third seasons.

Houston Comets games have been beamed into the living rooms of thousands of people all over the world. In total, the Comets have been broadcast nationally in 42 games, including 13 playoff games. The WNBA delivers an audience unique in sports. In-arena, gender breakdown is approximately 70-30 female-male. The TV audience is about 50-50 female-male, with a strong percentage of non-adult viewers.

THE PLAYERS AND THE TEAMS

The first of the player signings was announced on October 23, with Sheryl Swoopes and Rebecca Lobo joining the league. The duo were soon followed by Ruthie Bolton-Holifield, Lisa Leslie, Cynthia Cooper, Michele Timms (the first international player) and many more WNBA hopefuls. Though Sheryl Swoopes missed most of the inaugural WNBA season with the Comets because she became pregnant with her son, Jordan Jackson, she returned to the court in top shape in 1998 to help lead Houston to its second championship.

Eight teams were announced for the league's inaugural season. The Eastern Conference consisted of the Charlotte Sting, Cleveland Rockers, Houston Comets and New York Liberty while the Western Conference was comprised of the Los Angeles Sparks, Phoenix Mercury, Sacramento Monarchs and Utah Starzz.

On January 16, 1997, the first 16 players were assigned to teams, and on February 27 an Elite Draft added two more players to each team, increasing team rosters to four.

The Comets selected Tina Thompson, the Pac-10 Conference's leading scorer, with the first pick of the Inaugural WNBA draft. Margo Dydek, a 7'2" center from Poland, was selected first in the 1998 Draft by the Starzz, and two-time Associated Press Women's Basketball Player of the Year Chamique Holdsclaw was the Washington Mystics' number one selection in the 1999 draft. In the 2000 draft the Cleveland Rockers chose Belgian player, Ann Wauters.

As the first-ever draft pick in the WNBA, Tina Thompson has proven her staying power.

Since the inaugural season, the WNBA has expanded from eight teams to 16, with the Detroit Shock and Washington Mystics joining the league in 1998, the Minnesota Lynx and Orlando Miracle in 1999, and the Indiana Fever, Miami Sol, Portland Fire, and Seattle Storm in 2000.

The 2000 season will see 176 women play professional basketball in 256 regular season WNBA games (schedule history: 32 games in 2000 and 1999, 30 in 1998, 28 in 1997).

With such tremendous growth, the WNBA and the Women's National Basketball Players Association (WNBPA) announced on April 29, 1999 the league's first collective bargaining agreement — a first of its kind in women's team sports.

LOGOS AND UNIFORMS

With players and teams in place, the league began its next task of creating logos and uniforms.

The red, white and blue official WNBA logo — “Logo Woman” — was selected from about 50 different designs. After developing an extensive list of choices, the team names were selected by the league and the teams based on numerous factors, including: a tie to the NBA team name in that market, a link to a key characteristic of each city or state and/or the creation of a name fitting the current sports landscape. The uniforms also underwent several designs, and on May 21 the WNBA unveiled the team uniforms — two shorts silhouettes and three jerseys.

IT'S A BALL GAME

The WNBA game consists of a 30-second clock, a 19-foot, 9-inch three-point line, two 20-minute halves, eleven-player rosters and a collegiate regulation-size ball.

The WNBA's signature orange and oatmeal basketball by Spalding is 28.5

inches in circumference and one inch smaller than the NBA's regulation ball.

MILLIONS OF FANS JOIN IN

The inaugural WNBA season tipped off on June 21, 1997 with the New York Liberty taking on the Los Angeles Sparks at the Great Western Forum in Inglewood, California. A crowd of 14,284 watched as Sparks guard Penny Toler scored the first basket in WNBA history. The Liberty defeated the Sparks 67-57. Later that year, the WNBA league attendance surpassed the one million mark at America West Arena in Phoenix on August 22.

The league concluded a successful inaugural season with a league-wide average attendance of 9,669. Houston finished the first year with an average attendance of 10,227. In year two, the average attendance increased to 10,869 and by the third year the WNBA had set a new attendance record for the league and women's professional team sports by drawing 1,959,733 fans during the regular season.

The 1999 league-wide attendance average of 10,207 fans per game marked the second consecutive season that the WNBA averaged crowds of more than 10,000. More than four million fans have attended WNBA games since the league's inaugural season in 1997. In 1999, the WNBA drew 99 crowds in excess of 10,000 fans, including 14 games played in Houston. The WNBA's inaugural season included 41 crowds of more than 10,000 fans, while the 1998 season had 73.

In 1999, the Houston Comets continued to be a drawing factor for most teams, averaging a league-high 12,070 fans on the road.

FANS GET CONNECTED

In addition to television, the league website, WNBA.com, is an important tool in reaching fans.

The site (www.wnba.com) offers the latest WNBA news, multimedia coverage, fan interaction with players and more.

The WNBA was the first major sports league to provide complete live cybercast of a draft exclusively over the Internet. For its exclusive live cybercast of the 1999 WNBA Draft, WNBA.com registered 376,100 impressions, a 194 percent increase over the 1998 WNBA Draft (128,000 impressions), breaking all previous records for most traffic on any given day in the site's three-year history.

IN THE COMMUNITY

For the WNBA, the focus is two primary outreach initiatives: WNBA Be Active, a grassroots program that targets boys and girls ages 11-14 with the goal of encouraging them to be physically active; and WNBA Breast Health Initiative, a partnership with the National Alliance of Breast Cancer Organizations (NABCO) to draw national attention to the issue of breast cancer and the importance of early detection through the 3-Point Play for Good Breast Health — clinical breast exam, self-exam, and mammography.

The Comets have constantly looked to make a positive impact on the Houston community and have done so through the WNBA outreach initiatives. In addition to the Be Active and Breast Health initiatives, the Comets have supported such programs as a girls basketball league and a Lil' Sister program.

LEAGUE SHOWCASES ALL-STARS

On July 14, 1999, the league held the Inaugural WNBA All-Star Game at Madison Square Garden. The sold-out game (18,649) showcased the incredible sportsmanship, teamwork, player enthusiasm, fan involvement, and in-arena excitement that has made the WNBA so special.

Houston had a major presence in the inaugural All-Star game, having three Comets starters, Cynthia Cooper, Sheryl Swoopes and Tina Thompson named to the team. In fact, Swoopes was the highest vote getter in the WNBA.

The Western Conference All-Stars — led by the game's Most Valuable Player and Los Angeles Sparks center Lisa Leslie — defeated the Eastern Conference team, 79-61. The 2000 WNBA All-Star Game will be held at the America West Arena in Phoenix on July 17.

WE GOT GAME

Women's basketball has come a long way since its beginnings in 1892 when Senda Berenson adapted James Naismith's basketball rules for women. And with the continued growth of the WNBA, it plans to go even further. For more information on the WNBA and its history, log onto <http://www.wnba.com>.

OWNER/PRESIDENT

DATE PURCHASED:

OCT. 30, 1996

COLLEGE:

NEW YORK UNIVERSITY '65

On October 30, 1996, Houston Rockets owner and president Leslie Alexander brought another professional basketball team to Houston - the WNBA's Houston Comets.

When the NBA Board of Governors decided to create the Women's National Basketball Association, Alexander saw this as an opportunity to bring a new and exciting brand of professional basketball to the fans of Houston. Alexander, who knew firsthand of the city's love for professional basketball, eagerly applied for the right to operate one of the league's eight charter franchises.

Houston was granted a franchise and immediately Alexander set out to build another championship team. He strongly believed that in the first year of play, exceptional leadership from the right coach could carry a team to a championship. After an exhaustive search, Alexander hired Head Coach Van Chancellor from the University of Mississippi who has been named WNBA Coach of the Year for three consecutive years. The Houston Comets' reign as WNBA champions began in 1997 and they've never relented the title, being the only championship-winning team since the league's inception in 1997.

"Women's basketball has been a great success in Houston because Houston is a great basketball city," Alexander said. "The fans love the Houston Comets and now the city can boast of three championships."

Comets Head Coach and General Manager Van Chancellor knew that the Rockets organization was one with a dedication to winning. "One of the main reasons I came to Houston was because of Les Alexander's commitment to winning," Chancellor said. "This is a first-rate organization and I knew if I took this position, I would be a part of a winning franchise. Les and I talked about winning the first WNBA championship when I was hired. I knew by his excitement and enthusiasm that he had a serious commitment. What a thrill it was to share that championship with such a great owner."

Cynthia Cooper, the 1997 and 1998 WNBA Most Valuable Player and a favorite of the Houston fans, appreciates the support that the team has received from Alexander and the organization. "Les always wants to win and he's always looking for ways to make us better," Cooper said. "It's a very satisfying feeling to know you are taking the court and you have an owner who is doing everything he can to help you win."

While Alexander's teams have been most successful on the basketball court, unique to the Rockets and Comets organization is their off-the-court commitment to the community. Building a better quality of life for Houstonians is the driving force of Alexander and the franchise.

"It's so important to me that the Houston Rockets and Comets find a way to thank the fans for their overwhelming devotion to our teams. One way we try to do that is by reaching out to help young people through our community programs and fundraising initiatives," Alexander said.

In 1995, Alexander established the Clutch City Foundation with the goal of providing help, hope and inspiration to those who might otherwise be forgotten. Through efforts of the Clutch City Foundation, Houston Rockets and Comets players, coaches and business team members are involved in a multitude of community service and charity fundraising programs which focus on Houston's young people.

In the spring of 1999, Alexander turned the attentions of the Clutch City Foundation to addressing a need very near and dear to Comets fans -- Kim's Place. In honor of former Comets point guard, Kim Perrot, and her battle with cancer, Kim's Place will provide children with life-threatening illnesses a place to relax and play between treatments with others who share their unique challenges. The proceeds from the Clutch City Foundation's premier fundraiser, the annual Tux-&-Tennies Charity Gala, held in April of 1999 were donated as the initial gift for building Kim's Place. Since then, countless Comets fans and Kim Perrot fans from around the world have contributed to the Kim's Place fund.

In 1997, Alexander and the Rockets were honored with the Pro Team Community Award, given by the World Sports Humanitarian Hall of Fame. This award recognizes one professional team each year that is an active participant in their community and acts as a catalyst for community pride and spirit. In accepting the award, Alexander said, "The Rockets are honored to represent our great fans in bringing this special recognition to our community. It is our privilege and responsibility to help make a difference in the lives of Houstonians in need."

Through the Clutch City Foundation, Alexander and the Rockets and Comets will continue to make a difference in the lives of Houston's youth for many years to come.

Alexander's love of sports doesn't end with basketball. He acquired an Arena Football League franchise for the city of Houston on October 26, 1995. The team began the 1996 season as the league's 14th team and the Houston ThunderBears are one of three AFL teams associated with an NBA franchise.

A 1965 graduate of New York University, Alexander entered the business world and assembled his fortune as a securities trader. During his years on Wall Street, Alexander met Nanci Shnapier and the two were married. The couple moved to California in 1973 and attended law school at night. Four years later, both earned juris doctorate degrees.

Nanci, who acted on Broadway and in cameo roles in other productions as a child, received a Bachelor of Arts in education during her undergraduate years and holds a master's degree in speech pathology from New York University. More than nine years ago, she founded Animal Rights Foundation of Florida (ARFF) to educate the public to help stop animal abuse and exploitation. She serves as the foundation's president, heading an organization of more than 4,000 members.

Nanci has been instrumental in generating thousands of newspaper articles and hundreds of hours of television and radio coverage for animal rights issues. She has been responsible for the passage of animal rights legislation on the local, state and national level including the attorney general's ruling in the state of Texas that effectively outlaws horse tripping at Mexican-style rodeos across the state. She also opposes circus animal acts and other events that exploit animals. Nanci promotes a cruelty-free lifestyle. As a vegan (pure vegetarian), she consumes no animal products or by-products such as milk, cheese or eggs; the term extends to include shedding fur, leather or other animal-based products from one's lifestyle.

The Alexanders provided the lead gift for the internationally famous "Spay-Neuter Assistance Program" or "SNAP" - the nation's first mobile animal spaying and neutering units. SNAP addresses the dog and cat overpopulation crisis in Houston by providing free services in targeted low-income neighborhoods. For their continuing efforts to protect animals, the Alexanders were named the 1997 Cleveland Amory Humanitarians of the Year by The Fund for Animals. Leslie and Nanci followed the award presentation with a quarter-of-a-million dollar donation to The Fund, further extending their commitment to animal rights in Houston.

The Alexanders' daughter, a 1997 graduate of Duke University, was a National Merit finalist and won the Mae MacMillan Award for scholastic excellence and community service. She recently graduated from one of the country's most prestigious law schools.

COMMUNITY SERVICES

The WNBA and its teams are strongly committed to serving their communities through grassroots programs that positively influence peoples' lives and promote lifelong exercise and nutritional habits. For the WNBA, the focus is two primary outreach initiatives: WNBA Be Active and WNBA Breast Health Awareness.

The WNBA and NIKE teamed to promote the health and fitness initiative, WNBA BE ACTIVE PRESENTED BY NIKE. Be Active is a 16-city grassroots initiative that encourages young people to adhere to the program's core message — "Play Fit, Stay Fit". Held in each WNBA market during the offseason between January and April 2000, Be Active features 90-minute clinics aimed at boys and girls, ages 11-14. Each clinic, conducted by one of the four national spokeswomen and a local WNBA player, focuses on three key areas of fitness: endurance, strength and flexibility. The program's national spokespeople — Team Be Active — are Cynthia Cooper (Houston Comets), Jennifer Gillom (Phoenix Mercury), Nykesha Sales (Orlando Miracle), and Suzie McConnell-Serio (Cleveland Rockers). Participants also attend seminars conducted by health and fitness professionals on the importance of health and nutrition. The clinics were developed in collaboration with the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports.

To broaden the reach and ensure a year-round fitness message, WNBA Be Active Presented by Nike has expanded the overall program with new in-season elements that include fitness clinics for women and youth, a National Be Active Day, in-arena promotions, court refurbishment projects and content on WNBA.com.

SEARS WNBA BREAST HEALTH AWARENESS

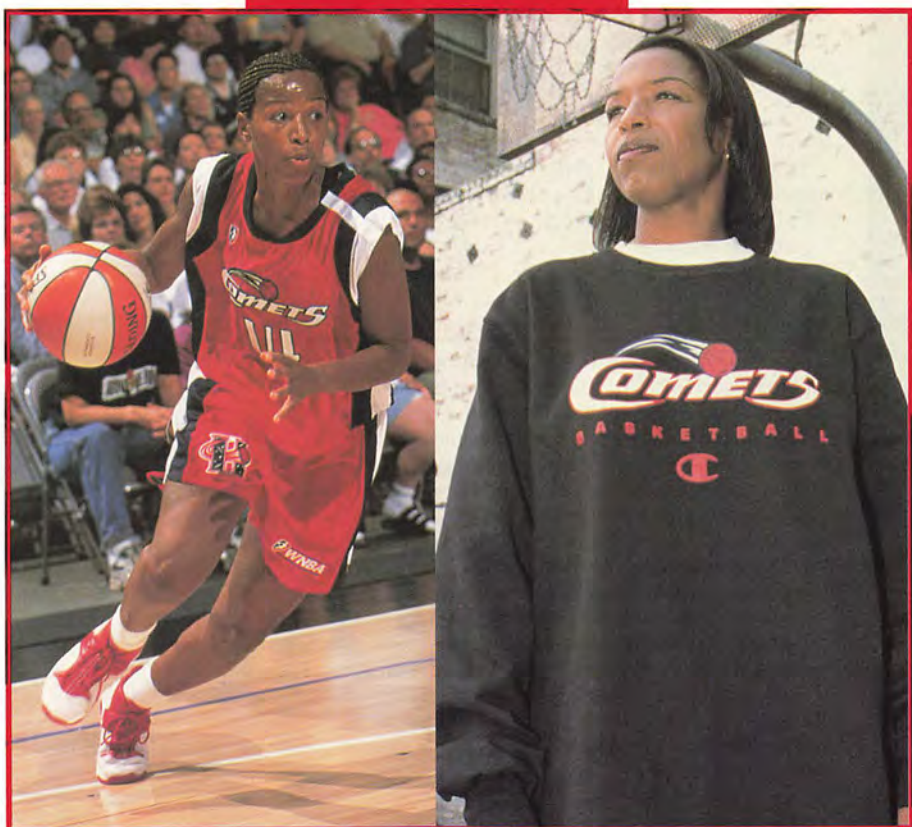

Now in its fourth year, Sears WNBA Breast Health Awareness is a partnership with the National Alliance of Breast Cancer Organizations (NABCO). The initiative draws national attention to the issue of breast health and the importance of early detection through the 3-Point Play for Good Breast Health — clinical breast exam, self-exam, and mammography.

This season, the program will continue to promote breast health through awareness nights in all 16 WNBA arenas. Mammogram information and breast health guides will be distributed and through its commitment, Sears will donate $.50 to NABCO for every fan that attends a Breast Health Awareness night. The funds will be used to support breast health services for medically underserved women. Breast health public service announcements will air on national television and in-arenas.

Cynthia Cooper leads young fans in a fitness clinic designed to teach them the importance of having an active lifestyle.

HALEY

Famous for her long, flowing silver hair, boggled eyes and huggable plush blue fur, Haley is the young alien mascot of the back-to-back-to-back WNBA Champion Houston Comets. Her most remarkable trait is her two-foot long nose, which is always getting her into trouble; nosing it around fans and serving as the goal for a ring toss competition.

With a shoe size of 30HH and a 50-inch waistline, Haley prances around the arena spraying fans with silly string and making people laugh. Her unique strut, combined with her zany sense of humor, is enjoyed both on and off the court. Heralded throughout the WNBA as a favorite among fans

Haley, who landed in Houston on June 21, 1997, has snuggled her way into the seats at Compaq Center as well as into the hearts of Comets fans everywhere. The young alien mascot is a force to reckon with by any opponent coming to Houston. She is the literally the largest and most loved fan of the Houston Comets.

TEAM NRG

The Comets Team NRG squad is considered one of the most exciting dance teams in the WNBA. This coed group of 14 spirited and enthusiastic dancers leads Comets fans in cheering for the home team. Explosive tumbling as well as creative high-energy dance routines are performed during home games for the enjoyment of Comets fans of all ages.

Team NRG brings exciting and fun entertainment to the in-arena experience of a Houston Comets game. As the three-time WNBA champions, the Comets always give a great performance on the court, while the talented performers of Team NRG celebrate and energize the game-action. Ranging from pop to funk, Team NRG plays it loud and makes Compaq Center shake, rattle and roll.

The 2000 season will be the fourth Team NRG squad to perform at Comets games. Also known for their many appearances throughout the city of Houston, Team NRG is known for giving performances that make fans stand up and cheer.

In his first three years of professional coaching, Van Chancellor has continued to raise the standard of excellence within the arena of women's basketball. After being named the Head Coach and General Manager of the WNBA's Houston franchise on April 29, 1997, Chancellor has guided the Comets to three consecutive WNBA championships. Entering his fourth season with the Comets, Chancellor has a 71-19 regular season mark (.789) and a 10-3 playoff record (.769).

Chancellor and his team of 11 players spent the 1999 season on an emotional roller coaster. In February, the team's starting point guard, Kim Perrot, was diagnosed with cancer and began a difficult battle with the disease that ended on August 19 at age 32. Despite the tragic loss of a friend and teammate, Chancellor helped guide the team to a 26-6 regular-season record. Some of the highlights included Sheryl Swoopes' first-ever WNBA triple-double (14 points, 15 rebounds, 10 assists), Cooper's third league scoring title (22.1 ppg) and a third WNBA championship title.

In 1998, the Comets set numerous league records on the road to a decisive 27-3 finish. Houston dominated on the court, setting a new scoring record (76.2 ppg), and recording 15 consecutive wins between June 27 and July 30. The .900 winning percentage is the best finish in the history of professional basketball, men or women.

After the 1998 season, Chancellor continued his presence on the basketball court as head coach of the 1998 WNBA Touring Team, a squad of elite WNBA players that played against the best teams in Brazil.

Chancellor has received many accolades as the Comets head coach, including being named WNBA Coach of the Year for three consecutive years. His best efforts as a coach are evidenced by both his team record and the success of his individual players, including the WNBA's two-time Most Valuable Player, Cynthia Cooper and Sheryl Swoopes.

In his first year with the Comets, Chancellor led the team to an 18-10 mark, the best record in the league and his first of two consecutive conference titles. The inaugural season was one of unpredictability for Chancellor as Houston's franchise player, Sheryl Swoopes, was on the sidelines expecting her first child. Left with a lineup of players that included Cynthia Cooper, first-round draft pick Tina Thompson and Brazilian phenom Janeth Arcain, Chancellor's coaching skills and positive outlook helped produce a championship team.

Before joining the professional ranks, Chancellor spent 19 successful seasons as the head coach of the University of Mississippi Lady Rebels. Under his guidance, the Lady Rebels posted a winning percentage of .740 percent (439-154), made 23 postseason appearances, including 14 NCAA Tournament appearances, and became recognized as one of the premier women's basketball programs in the nation. As a collegiate coach, Chancellor ranks 16th all-time in coaching wins amongst women's basketball coaches.

A Louisville, Mississippi native, Chancellor played two years of basketball at East Central Junior College in Decatur, Miss., and later transferred to Mississippi State, where he earned a bachelor's degree in Math and Physical Education in 1965. He also entered the coaching ranks during his senior year at Mississippi State, serving as head coach of the boys' basketball team at Noxapater High School. Chancellor received his master's degree in Physical Education from the University of Mississippi in 1973.

A book published in the fall of 1999, "Heart of a Champion," chronicles Chancellor's life from his childhood in Mississippi through his third WNBA championship with the Houston Comets. Chancellor and his wife, Betty, live in Houston and have two children - John and Renee, and two grandsons, Nicholas (3) and Jacob Winston, born in April '99.

Your Fur Coat Could Save an Animal's Life

Please join me, Liza Minnelli, Mary Tyler Moore, Lauren Bacall, and others who have had a change of heart about wearing fur. Give your fur a new lease on life. Donate your coat to PETA, where it will be used in educational displays and anti-fur fashion shows. All donations are tax-deductible.

"My life has a plan, and this is just another chapter. It all revolves around the same thing – struggles I've had – and how throughout those struggles I've always won the battle. This is another battle. It's just a bigger battle. I will still tell my story."

–Kim Perrot, March 17, 1999,
one month after being diagnosed with cancer.

Standing at just 5'5", Kim Perrot exuded confidence and athleticism. She helped lead the Houston Comets to their first two WNBA championships as the team's fiery point guard. On the court, she was fast and furious, never relenting on defense and always in the face of the opponent. Off the court, Kim became the tiny spark that caught fire and kept the team burning with passion and intensity.

Kim Perrot always had the heart and drive to succeed in anything she tried. As the point guard for the back-to-back WNBA champion Houston Comets, Kim made a name for herself as a great basketball player, a wonderful person, and a courageous fighter.

Kim, a Louisiana native and the youngest of six children, was told all her life that she was too small to play basketball. Kim refused to listen and vowed to prove her doubters wrong. She played four seasons at Southwest Louisiana, where she holds 26 school records and the NCAA record for the second-highest scoring performance in a single game with 58 points against Southeastern Louisiana. Kim also won two USA Basketball Championships in 1989 and 1990, and was voted Honorable Mention All-America and Player of the Year for her conference in the 1989-90 season.

Kim played for three teams overseas before trying out for the Comets. She was playing in Europe when she learned that the WNBA's inaugural season would start in the summer of 1997. Kim came to Houston determined to find a way to get into the tryouts. After persistently calling the Comets coaching staff, she was invited to join 55 other players to try out for only two roster spots. Kim showed her fire and determination and won over Coach Van Chancellor for a spot on the Houston roster. Not willing to simply be a player at the end of the bench, Kim worked her way up to starting point guard. Providing a crucial spark for the Comets with her positive energy, fearlessness and relentless floor leadership, Kim was the catalyst that propelled the team to back-to-back WNBA championships.

What made Kim Perrot a woman of exceptional character was her ability to overcome personal adversity and, all the while, focus on the needs of people around her who are facing similar challenges. Kim's ongoing commitment to encouraging and motivating young people to succeed had an enormously positive affect on children throughout our city. Her success in life was a direct result of her character and the principles that defined her – faith, determination and hard work. Kim's positive outlook, in the face of adversity, continues to provide inspiration and motivation for each of us to succeed against all odds.

Kim is survived by her mother Consuella Perrot, brothers Craig and Kevin Perrot, sister Loretta and brother-in-law Aaron Williams, aunt Joycelyn Boze and many nieces and nephews. She was preceded in death by her sister Lynette Perrot and brother Keith Perrot.

"She had such joy in her life. There will never be another Kim Perrot."

– Van Chancellor, Head Coach and General Manager of the Houston Comets and Kim's favorite dominos partner.

Kim's
Place

CLUTCH CITY
Foundation

About Kim's Place

Kim's Place was born from the Houston Rockets organization's desire to honor Comets guard Kim Perrot and her courageous battle with cancer and represent her quest to help others overcome adversity. This special place will serve as a recreational facility where families and children battling life-threatening illnesses can go to have fun — before and after treatments — with others who are facing similar challenges. It will not only serve as a refuge for children who are fighting for their lives, but it will also be a lasting tribute to the amazing heart and spirit of Kim Perrot.
